Distinguished Company Meets
Prince of Udine and His Colleagues at Grasslands.

His Royal Highness Prince Ferdinand of Savoy, Prince of Udine, and the other members of the Italian mission were entertained at a dinner dance last evening at the Grasslands Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Slater. The company invited to meet them numbered sixty and included the Italian Ambassador and Countess dl Celler and the Secretary of State. Mrs. Laning was not present owing to the filmess of her father, Gen. John W. Foster.

Miss Elizabeth Chase, whose martinge to Lieut. John McDonald Thompson will take place next Tuesday, was the honor guest at a luncheon which Miss Mar Jorie Helmbold and Miss Helene Hamilton gave yesterday at the Grafton. Covers were laid for twelve. In the center of the table was a huge pink rose filled with gifts for the bride, and from the rose to each place trailed a wide pink ribbon with which each guest drew out her gift to present it personally to Miss Chase. The place cards were painted with dainty butterflies.

The College Women's Club will give a reception to meet Representative Jeanette Eankin, of Montain its newly elected honorary member, this evening at $30 o'clock at the club records but it.

"Well," said the woman in brown velvet 'my observation is that the wives who are loved best and who have most done for them are the ones who are of no earthly use except as hangers. I've seen women like this who were such this rable housekeepers, and so generally shiftles that our would have thought that their husbands would break the sired law getting away from them. But they didn't. They seemed to like it. They even excused their wives incompetence by saying as if they were bragging on a virtue, that "Maudie, or Sadle was such a labless bittle darling."

This particular form of iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken or injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard looking women 100 per cent in two weeks time in many instances. I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results.—Ferdinand King, M. D.

XII. Turning the Squad.

When a squad is marching in line there are two ways of turning it-on a moving, or on a fixed pivot.

The squad is turned on a moving pivot when it is marching as a separate unit, or when, in a column of ate unit, or when, in a column of squads, the command "Column Right (Left)" is given. The moving pivot, in which the pivot man on the front rank advances at the half step of fifteen inches until the line is abreast of him, is designed to turn a column precisely, but with the least loss of headway.

A fixed pivot "Squads Right (Left)", turns each squad in its place on the designated base, right or left, and is a movement which hears important relation to every other squad in the column. For if the forward movement is not entirely checked by the pivot man's turning and marking time in his tracks the whole company will be thrown out of alignment.
